EVENING GOWN OF CREPE DE CHINE.

The gown sketched above was an exquisite creation in cream and vellow tones-beautiful as to color scheme and most charmingly graceful in line. The material was yellow crepe de chine, with embroidered motifs of daisies in three shades from cream to golden brown. The flowers applied on pieces of net-practically invisible-formed the short sleeve, the waist decoration at front and back, and were used as a border on the flounce hem. The graceful scarf which crosses the shoulder is caught at the bust in the front and slightly above the waist line in the back by the embroidered motifs; below these fastenings in the back it is allowed to fall free in a soft loop reaching nearly to the hem.
